Editorial profile

DYRLÆGEN is based on professional articles written by veterinarians. Its purpose is to share current knowledge and to ensure that veterinarians, veterinary students, and veterinary nurses receive new and relevant information within their professional areas, such as small animals, horses, or production animals.

In addition, the trade magazine brings news and journalistic content reports, portraits, and interviews in order to focus on topics, such as education, continuing education, and modern operation of practice. The magazine also includes subjects within the management, financial management, and IT operation areas – as well as new trends within the profession, for example the increased specialization.
